JOHN JAMES ADAMS

General Manager

Born: Fort William, Ontario, June 14, 1895

The time is the fall of 1927. Through the doors of the newly-constructed Olympia Stadium strolls a 32-year-old man. Unknown to him, the city of Detroit or the world of hockey, the guiding hand and the solid foundation of the Detroit Hockey Club comes through that door with him. Now, 33 years later, Jack Adams is the dean among the General Managers in the National Hockey League. This year marks his 42nd season of association with professional hockey and his 33rd year of controlling the destiny of the Red Wings. His record of longevity is greater than that of any other man who has served the game.

Only the year before the genial Fort William Irishman came to Detroit he was playing with the Stanley Cup champion Ottawa Senators. By his own initiative, he was recommended and appointed to the coaching job with the new Detroit franchise by NHL president Frank Calder. With the acceptance of the new position, Adams left behind him an outstanding ten-year playing record with Toronto, Vancouver and Ottawa. From his initial playing days in Michigan's Copper Country through his brilliant pro career to the days of coaching and managing the Red Wings, he has become one of hockey's living legends.

At the time of his switch from playing in Ottawa to coaching and managing in Detroit, he boasted a wealth of hockey knowledge gained the practical way, on the ice. He had set a Western League record for scoring, and he had started and finished his playing span in identical fashion, by being a member of a Stanley Cup winning team.

This, however, was only a prelude to a more brilliant career in the major league ranks. Adams almost single-handedly built the Red Wing organization and the game of hockey in the Midwest. He made his team the best-known of the United States' clubs in the National League. Certainly it has become the most successful in achieved results.

His play patterns and his unerring judgment of personnel as well as his farm system ideas have become models for other teams.

However, Adams record of achievement in hockey is not limited to his contributions to Detroit and its organization. While the Red Wings are first in his heart, his total regard for the game itself has kept him with a youthful, ever-changing outlook. This has reflected itself in many contributions at a league level, which in turn led to the overall progress and growth in prestige of the sport of hockey.

Examples are the present penalty rule whereby a man is discharged from the box following an opponent's score; ice resurfacing between periods; the players' pension society; television and video taping of home games; many of the phases of agreement between professional and amateur hockey and between the National and minor leagues.

All of these have stemmed from Adams' unceasing devotion to the game. He is dedicated not only to his team and his game but to the progress of each. Many promotional schemes of present day hockey can also trace their beginnings to his theories.

Through the years and with all of this devotion to the game, Adams has remained a man so active that he has found time to participate civically as well as at his profession and to lead a full life.

His appearance as a candidate for the Detroit City Council a few years ago, his presence on the board of trustees of one of Detroit's larger hospitals are but a few examples of his civic mindedness.

Two huge panels on the walls of his Olympia office contain several of his many plaques, symbols of the various and sundry honors he has come by during his career. One of the most recent accolades occurred in September when he was unanimously elected to Hockey's Hall of Fame.

As one of the few truly colorful personalities remaining in sports, he is very much in demand as a speaker at banquets. From the podium he delivers his speeches in much the same way as he addresses his hockey players, very frankly and forcefully. His thoughts on both sports and life carry a grand lesson for his young listeners and his contemporaries alike.

Adams finds time to avidly follow the fortunes of the other big league sports teams in the Detroit area, and he views them with the same zeal he displays in hockey matters.

Jack and Mrs. Adams have made their permanent residence in Detroit for over 20 years.

His long and brilliantly successful association with the Red Wings is perhaps equalled for sports longevity only by the late Connie Mack in devotion to a single club.

a—Appointed Manager-Coach, Detroit Cougars

SIDNEY GERALD ABEL

Coach

Born: Melville, Saskatchewan, February 22, 1918

Popular Sid Abel is in his second full year as coach of the Red Wings. Abel's leadership of the Detroit team began in January, 1958 when the 41-year-old former hockey great took over for Jimmy Skinner, who was forced by illness to retire from active coaching.

Abel is only the fourth full-time coach in the Detroit club's 34-year history. He is the first to bring with him such a brilliant playing record as a Red Wing as he compiled in his 11-year stay in Detroit. None of his predecessors—Jack Adams, Tommy Ivan, or Skinner—ever played for the Wings.

Two seasons at the helm of the Chicago Black Hawks mark Abel's previous coaching experience before he assumed guidance of the Detroiters. In his first year in the Windy City, 1952-53, Sid led the Hawks into the post-season playoffs on the basis of a fourth place finish, at that time their highest position in seven years.

The greatest center in Red Wing history, Abel made a name for himself through his superior leadership qualities, both in active performance and in inspirational efforts. Sid was the first forward in the history of the National League to win All-Star recognition at two different positions. He made the second team as a left wing in 1941-42 and was named to the first team center spot in 1948-49 and 1949-50 and to the second team in 1950-51.

Sid came out of Melville, Sask. to start his career in 1938 as a left wing with Pittsburgh, then Detroit's top farm club. Promoted to the Wings at the season's two-thirds mark, he saw little service. The following season he divided his time between Indianapolis and Detroit but again was not too active, this time due to a serious shoulder injury.

In 1941 he began his outstanding three-year stay at left wing on the old "Linament Line"—Abel, Eddie Wares and Don Grosso. Abel was captain of the Wings when they took the Stanley Cup in 1942-43, the first of three Cup winners that he captained. Two years in the Royal Canadian Air Force interrupted his playing career. When he returned for a full season in 1946, he started on an eight-year span as a top centerman and a superb leader.

He first shone brilliant in 1948-49 when he was voted the most valuable player in the League, earning him the cherished Hart Trophy. The next year he led the League in goals as the Red Wings took their second straight NHL title. Working in the middle on the fabled "Production Line," Sid maintained that he could do his job in a rocking chair because his linemates—Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay—did theirs so well. As the years went on, Sid discovered that he needed more and more rest, and after the 1952 playoffs, in which Abel led the Wings to the Cup in a record eight straight games, Sid decided to retire from active playing. During the summer he accepted an offer to coach the Black Hawks, at which post he stayed for the next two years.

He resigned from his Chicago job to return to Detroit where he returned to being a representative of a sheet-metal firm and in addition, became a radio and television commentator on the hockey games. He was occupied in these positions when the call came to take over the Red Wings. As coach, he had to abandon his press box observations and comments but still holds down his position with the steel company.

Abel has a home in Southfield, a suburb of Detroit, where he is an active citizen, both in civic affairs and in youth work. He has given much of his time to the development of the youngsters hockey program in the Detroit area.

Sid, his two children and his wife are truly a hockey family. Mrs. Abel is the former Gloria Morandy whom Sid met and married when she was Jack Adams' secretary at Olympia. Son Jerry is a budding hockey player, a center who wears his dad's famous uniform no. 12. And daughter Linda is a die-hard Red Wing fan.

Respected throughout the League for having sound coaching judgment, and a view of the game as seen through the players' eyes, Sid possesses a calm philosophical attitude to coaching and winning and losing. With this outlook he has the knack of being able to accept both victory and defeat in an orderly manner.

Born: Shaunavon, Saskatchewan, March 7, 1935. Height 5'11", Weight 180 lbs.

The first choice of the Red Wings in last summer's annual National Hockey League draft meetings, Gary Aldcorn brings an outstanding minor league scoring record to Detroit.

This solidly-built left winger became a Red Wing when the Detroit management paid the $20,000 draft price to Toronto in June.

Last season with Toronto's American League club in Rochester, Aldcorn was voted the All-Star left wing berth on the basis of his impressive totals of 37 goals and 42 assists, good for fifth place in the AHL scoring race.

In the Maple Leaf organization all his hockey life, Gary was a mainstay on the Toronto Marlboro's Memorial Cup champions in 1954-55, scoring 49 points in 47 games. The next season saw the husky flanker playing his initial year in the professional ranks, getting 22 goals for Winnipeg in the Western League.

After splitting the 1956-57 slate between Toronto and Rochester, he remained with the Leafs all of 1957-58. Sent down to the minors again last season, Gary saw NHL action only briefly. In emergency cases, Toronto recalled him from Rochester on two occasions, in November for three games and in March for two.

CHARLES FRANCIS CULLEN

Right Wing

Born: Ottawa, Ontario, June 16, 1935. Height 6', Weight 175 lbs.

Added to the Detroit right wing forces over the summer was Charles Francis Cullen, better known to all hockey fans as Barry.

Cullen became a member of the Detroit family in June when he was involved in a two-for-one trade between the Red Wings and Toronto. To obtain the 24-year-old winger, Detroit sent veteran Johnny Wilson and farmhand Frank Roggeveen to the Maple Leafs.

He is counted on to return to his form of two years ago when he scored 16 goals in 70 games for Toronto. Barry was sidelined most of last season due to a knee injury suffered during training camp.

Barry and his older brother Brian, who comprise one of the NHL's two brother combinations, will both be toiling for different teams this winter. Brian, older by 19 months, was drafted off the Leafs by New York.

Barry's best season in professional hockey was four years back when he scored 38 goals for Winnipeg to earn rookie of the year honors in the Western League.

ALEXANDER PETER DELVECCHIO

Born: Fort William, Ontario, December 4, 1931. Height 6'. Weight 190 lbs.

Last season was a year of success and failure for Alex Delvecchio. Named on the second All-Star team and winner of the Lady Byng Trophy for sportsmanship, it would seem that he had a great year. But on the statistical side of things, he didn't. He failed by one of reaching his second straight 20-goal season, picked up only 35 assists, placed third in scoring on the team and finished 16th in the League.

For an average player, that would sound like a very satisfactory record, but Alex is not an average player. He possesses all the talent and potential necessary to become as Jack Adams claims "one of the top four or five players in the history of the NHL."

After eight seasons in the big time, Alex has not reached his full stature in the eyes of critical hockey observers. Whether or not he will continue developing and hoist himself up to the top rung of the ladder of hockey stardom could be resolved this season, the ninth year the 27-year-old forward has spent with the Red Wings.

Listed as a left wing and center, Delvecchio earned All-Star honors last season at the former post after playing all his earlier years as a center. The change was made during last year's training camp when Alex was put on the left side with Gordie Howe and Norm Ullman. This trio made up Detroit's powerful first line and carried the Wings through a successful first half season. When things began to go bad and the team wallowed in a long mid-year slump, Alex requested that he be moved back to center to help shake the team out of its doldrums. As he had made the left wing All-Star position at mid-season, this action demonstrated Alex' tremendous team spirit. However, the switch did not change his selection at the year's end. On top of this, Alex was voted the sportsmanship trophy to mark the first time he won a League cup. The selection was by the narrowest of margins, Alex edging out New York's Andy Hebenton by one-half point in the final voting. Alex compiled a superb record of only three penalties in 70 games.

Delvecchio is nicknamed "Fats" because he is an easy-going, fun-loving young man with a smiling face. He reached the 140 mark in career goals last year. Added to his goal-scoring marks is a team record he tied five seasons ago when he scored in five straight games. But typical of his puzzling lack of consistency is the fact that he then was blanked in the next 11 games.

Originally scouted in his native Fort William, he played junior hockey in Oshawa in 1950 where he was coached by the late Larry Aurie and finished second in the OHA scoring race. He turned professional in the fall of 1951, and after six games with the Wings' Indianapolis farm, he won promotion to the parent club and has never been away from its lineup since.

All-Star election is not new to this highly respected NHL performer. In his second season Alex made the select team as a center. His best scoring years were 1955-56 when he tallied 25 goals, and 1956-57 when he returned from a broken ankle to fire 16 goals in 48 games.

Delvecchio maintains a home in Fort William where he is the proud and prosperous proprietor of a furniture and sporting goods store that bears his name. Alex and his wife have three children, two girls and a boy.

WARREN EDWARD GODFREY

Defense

Born: Toronto, Ontario, March 23, 1931. Height 6' 1". Weight 190 lbs.

Entering his fifth season with the Red Wings and his eighth year in the National Hockey League, 28-year-old Warren Godfrey came to Detroit from Boston in a nine-player deal in 1955.

A tall, smiling Irishman with crew-cut blond hair, Rocky, as he is known around hockey circles, had his best goal-scoring season last year. But at the same time he suffered his worst assist output, which resulted in a low point production of ten.

A player whose career was stalled a few times while trying to make the big league grade, Godfrey was first seen by Ranger General Manager Muzz Patrick while playing for Tacoma in 1951. He moved up to Muzz' brother's team, Boston, the next season. With but a single year of minor league play behind him, Rocky started in the big time at the age of 21.

After three sessions with the Bruins, he joined the Red Wings as a result of a trade in which he and Terry Sawchuk were the key names.

Always ready with his quick wit, Godfrey is one of the most popular players on the team. Warren's defense play has drawn praise from the For'em Club, who selected him "most improved player" last season.

Father of three little Godfreys, Rocky has lived in Detroit for three years. He spent last summer in a new business venture. In keeping with his wintertime action on the ice, Godfrey was the owner, manager and operator of a local ice cream stand.

PETER GOEGAN

Defense

Born: Fort William, Ontario, March 6, 1934. Height 6' 1". Weight 195 lbs.

If rugged, hard-going Pete Goegan continues to develop the way he did last season, Detroit will then have a first-class "policeman"-type defenseman.

In his first full year in the National Hockey League, the 25-year-old Goegan (pronounced Goy-gun) made many rivals respect his fearless body checks while performing as a stout defender of the Red Wing cause.

Although still inexperienced and unpolished, Pete plays the game all-out with a deep determination to learn the finer points of the art of "defensemanship."

Besides his rough and tough defensive tactics, Goegan possesses a fine shot and he used the high, hard one to get his first NHL goal last February against Toronto.

His improvement last year is shown by the fact that he doubled his first-half point output in the final 35 games. On the deficit side are his 111 minutes in penalties and the ten power play goals scored by the opposition while he was in the penalty box.

The black-haired, jut-jawed blueliner had his first taste of professional hockey with Cleveland after playing with the Sault Sainte Marie, Michigan, Indians in the senior amateur ranks.

One of the Red Wings' Italian colony, Pete came to Detroit in February of 1958 from Cleveland in a trade for rear-guard Gordon Hollingworth.

A carpenter in the summer, Pete is single and lives with his parents in his home town of Fort William.

LLOYD HADDON

Defense

Born: Sarnia, Ontario, August 10, 1938. Height 6', Weight 180 lbs.

Newest of the Red Wing blue line brigade is tall, good-looking Lloyd Haddon, a product of Detroit's amateur club in Hamilton. Haddon turned professional at the end of last season, playing nine games with Edmonton.

The 21-year-old defenseman started 1958-59 with the Tiger Cubs, his third season in the O.H.A. The oldest player on the roster, Haddon had his best scoring year as he totaled 15 goals and 29 assists for 44 points.

Born in near-by Sarnia where he still lives and plays lacrosse in the summer, Haddon played his first five years of organized hockey in his home town. He moved up to junior "B" with Burlington in 1955-56, and on to Hamilton in 1956-57.

After a trio of good seasons in Junior "A" hockey, Haddon now appears ready for the pro ranks. Whether he makes the Red Wings this year or not, it shouldn't be too long before his defensive talents will be on display before the local fans.

GORDON HOWE

Right Wing

Born: Floral, Saskatchewan, March 31, 1928. Height 6'. Weight 201 lbs.

Gordie Howe, the greatest of all the Red Wings, passed another milestone in his legendary career last season. Of his 32 goals, one was number 400 which made him the second player to score that many goals in a lifetime. Added to his total of 418 goals, with which he finished last season, are 486 assists, the all-time National League high in this department. His total of 904 points is the highest ever achieved by a Red Wing and second highest in the League.

The 31-year-old Westerner has had his name entered into the record books in his 13-year NHL career perhaps more times than any other player in the history of the League. Leader of the Detroit team, both in title and performance, Howe has already taken his place along-side the greats in Michigan sports history.

Besides attaining the 400 level in goals last season, Gordie tied another mark by tallying 30 or more goals for the ninth season. His 32 scores and 46 assists gave him 78 points and fourth place in the scoring race. In his magnificent career he has led the League in scoring five times. This fact is all the more impressive when it is noted that the most times any other player has accomplished this is twice. Howe was runner-up in the most valuable player poll, an election that he has won on four other occasions. In addition, he was named to the second All-Star team, the tenth time that this coveted honor has come his way. Howe has been on six first teams and four second squads.

Among Howe's many glorious achievements at the team level are ten straight seasons as the leading goal scorer on the Red Wings. He has paced the club in points as well in eight of these years. He has taken the Detroit Hockey Writers' award as the team's most valuable player six times in the last seven years. Also, he has established a remarkable durability record. Howe has missed only 12 games in the last ten seasons, and only 34 in his entire 13-year career. In nine of his 13 seasons he played the entire schedule.

The story of the uncovering of such a talent as Howe is becoming a legend in hockey. Originally scouted as a juvenile in Saskatoon by the late Fred Pinckney, Gord moved to Galt in 1945. But his age of 16 prevented him from playing with the Detroit-sponsored Galt juniors and he was forced to stay out of competitive hockey for a full year. However, merely practicing, learning and growing, he won a professional contract with Omaha the following fall on the strength of scoring two goals in his first pre-season appearance as a Red Wing.

A single year of minor league experience with Omaha brought him to Detroit when he was but 18 years old. He went through three unspectacular seasons before blossoming out and establishing himself as a star. This was in 1949; he's been a star, indeed a super-star, ever since.

Howe's great team play is shown by the fact that he is equally at home as a shot or play maker. It has been said that he passes off too much and robs himself of many scoring chances. He has developed his shot until he has to take a back seat to no one in his category. His ambidexterity which allows him to shoot either right or left handed is perhaps his greatest single ability on the firing line. In a defensive role, Howe is a respected checker, able to give out his share of resounding body-checks. Gordie has had to overcome several serious hockey injuries, the gravest of which was a head injury suffered in the 1950 playoffs which threatened his career.

A special honor came his way two years ago when he became the first active athlete in the history of the state of Michigan to be elected to the State's Sports Hall of Fame.

Immensely popular with hockey fans everywhere, in Detroit, any of the League cities, or wherever he appears, Gordie possesses natural humility seldom found in an athlete of such tremendous stature. Off the ice he is a quiet, soft spoken man with a clever sense of humor. However, he is a proud and dedicated athlete who has achieved his station in life through hard work and conscientious effort.

An athlete with potential to become a professional in almost any field he would choose, Howe sticks to golf as his second sporting love. Gord is rated as one of the better amateurs in the Detroit area. He has tried his hand at baseball, working out with the Tigers and giving a respectable showing. He is a perfect physical specimen and he takes pains to stay in condition all year round. Underlying his successful efforts as a professional athlete is his remarkable coordination with which he was naturally endowed but on which he worked continuously to improve to perfection.

Married in 1953 to a Detroit girl, Gord is now the father of three children, two boys, Marty and Mark, and a girl, Cathy, born last March. He calls Detroit his permanent home, having recently settled in one of the suburban areas. In the business world he is associated with Tiger star Al Kaline as manufacturers' representatives.

LEONARD PATRICK KELLY

Defense

Born: Simcoe, Ontario, July 9, 1927. Height 5' 11½". Weight 190 lbs.

Second only to Gordie Howe in point of service to the Red Wings, Red Kelly has taken his place as one of the Detroit Hockey Club's all-time great players. The gentlemanly, red-haired, soft-spoken defenseman ranks as Detroit's fifth highest point scorer and has won more honors than any other blueliner in Red Wing history.

His list of achievements is lengthy and impressive, yet the glory he has come by has failed to change the actions and behavior of one of the nicest guys to put on a pair of skates. He was the original winner of the James Norris Memorial Trophy as the most outstanding defenseman in the League, has taken the Lady Byng Trophy for sportsmanship on three occasions, and has received All-Star recognition eight times in his 12-year career, being named to the first squad six times. Red reached and passed the 150 mark in lifetime goals last season. With 298 assists he will surpass the 300 mark in assists this coming year. His greatest single offensive performance was a three-goal "hat trick" against Boston on Oct. 21, 1954.

Kelly is one of those exceptional players who made the jump directly from the amateur ranks to the National League. Outstanding at Toronto's St. Michael's College, he joined the Wings in the fall of 1947 and has been a mainstay on the local scene ever since.

Versatile enough to be able to handle a regular forward spot, Kelly has served the Detroit team on the front line at different times in cases of emergency, due either to injuries or to a need for more power on the left side.

Possessor of a cool head even in the face of the most fierce action, Kelly is noted for his ability to keep his anger under control, despite his red hair, usually symbolic of a quick temper. He is also renown for his dislike of and abstinence from profanity. In spite of his calm reputation Red has been known to do battle when the occasion demanded it. He handles himself quite well, having been a championship boxer during his college days.

A well-conditioned and conscientious athlete, Red has missed only 24 games in his career, and average of only two absences a season. Last season his record almost took on a long inactive period as he was hit in the ankle by a shot in practice and was thought to be out of action for weeks. However, Red hurried the recuperation and was back in the line-up after missing only three games.

Among other talents, Red is famous for his proficiency in playing the puck with his skates as well as his stick, and is without equal in this skillful category. This feat has caught on in hockey lately with the result that more and more of it is seen every game.

A bridegroom last summer when he married ex-ice show queen Andra McLaughlin on July 4th, Red now rents his own house in Detroit after staying in a rooming house near the Stadium during his previous 11 years in the city. In the off-season Red returns to his native Simcoe where he has a large tobacco farm and a prosperous bowling establishment. While in Detroit Red keeps occupied representing a local steel firm and a tool shop.

FORBES KENNEDY

Center

Born: Dorchester, New Brunswick, August 18, 1935. Height 5' 8". Weight 185 lbs.

Never in the history of the National Hockey League has a regular forward gone a full season without scoring at least one goal. Last season Forbes Kennedy came within one goal of setting that unique record.

Kennedy went 64 games before scoring his first and only goal of the '58-59 campaign on March 10 against Montreal. Despite his lack of scoring last year Forbes has the distinction of being one of the most popular players with the fans as well as with his teammates.

Always a peppery, bouncy player, Kennedy goes at full speed at all times. He performs in a bold, fearless, almost wreckless style. Thus, he not only makes the enemy keep his head up, but the officials as well, and many penalties result from his being whistled down after a fierce check. But the fans love his go-for-broke attitude.

One of the few natives of the Maritimes to make the National League, and play for the Red Wings, Kennedy came to the Motor City from Chicago in the Ted Lindsay deal two years ago.

Forbes also is one of a small number of players who have been able to make the jump from Junior hockey directly to the NHL. He played with the junior Montreal Canadiens before being purchased by the Black Hawks in 1956.

Kennedy returns to the Islands in the off-season, living in Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, with his wife and three children. He spends his summers as a lifeguard at a local swimming pool.

CLAUDE LA FORGE

Born: Sorel, Quebec, July 1, 1936. Height 5' 8½". Weight 160 lbs.

Another of the young players on the Red Wing roster who might well hit his stride this season is rugged Claude LaForge.

The hard-driving LaForge is in his second year of association with the Detroit organization after starting his career in the Montreal system. He was one of three Canadiens purchased by the Wings in June, 1958.

Stocky at 5' 8½" and 160 pounds, the 23-year-old left wingman played three years of top amateur hockey with the Montreal Canadien juniors. A teammate on these clubs was Forbes Kennedy, Claude's roommate and linemate.

LaForge turned professional in 1956 with Shawinigan Falls of the Quebec League, playing with the Cataracts for two seasons. At the tailend of the 1957-58 campaign his fine performance earned him a promotion to the Canadiens' American League farm club at Rochester. He was called to the NHL for a five-game spell with the parent Canadiens.

Last season he suffered a set-back in his attempt to make the NHL when he was sent down to Hershey. After ten games he was recalled and remained with Detroit for the rest of the schedule.

On the Wings, the French and English speaking LaForge joins the ace of the League's bi-lingual players, Marcel Pronovost. A bachelor, Claude lives in Montreal during the off-season when he works as a helper on a brewery truck.

LEONARD LUNDE

Center

Born: Edmonton, Alberta, November 13, 1936. Height 6'. Weight 185 lbs.

National League stardom shouldn't be too far distant for young Len Lunde. Based on his first year of major league hockey, especially the second half, this 22-year-old center appears on the way to a long and successful stay in the NHL.

After spending the opening part of last season in an unproductive spell, after mid-year Lunde showed that he was learning by observing and gaining experience with every game. He was the highest scoring rookie in the circuit from January to March, rifling in 11 goals after getting only three in his first 35 games.

It is this late development that is the bright spot in the talented centerman's first-year performance. It is encouraging because his output was in direct contrast to the usual first-year pace which normally starts fast but dwindles considerably toward the end of the season.

Lunde's sudden blooming brought him enough votes in the League's rookie of the year balloting to tie him for fifth spot in the race for the Calder Trophy. He won the local freshman honors as he took the Detroit Sports Broadcasters' Plaque.

Lunde made his way up to the Redshirts through Detroit's Western farm system. He played all his early organized hockey in his native Edmonton, playing junior with the Oil Kings and then professional with the Flyers.

After hitting the 20-goal mark in his initial taste of play-for-pay hockey, he missed doubling his production by only a single goal, getting 39 the next season. His total of 82 points ranked fourth in the Western League.

Last year while adjusting to the NHL, Len was shifted from center to right wing. But when he began to hit his stride he was permanently placed in the middle. His future seems to be at center where he has demonstrated that he can do more tricks with a puck than many established pivotmen.

Married two summers ago, the good-looking, constantly-smiling youngster is now the father of a son, born towards the end of the '58-59 season. During his off-season residence in Edmonton, the tall, blond Norwegian keeps busy as a greenskeeper on a golf course.

LOUIS MARCON

Defense

Born Fort William, Ontario, May 28, 1935. Height 5' 10". Weight 175 lbs.

One of the most promising young defenseman to come along in years in the Detroit organization is rugged Lou Marcon. In his role as a "defensive" defenseman, Marcon performed capably during his brief 21-game stint in the National League last season.

Called up from the Red Wings' Edmonton farm club in February, Marcon immediately stepped into regular blue-line duty. In bidding the bull-necked rearguard farewell upon his departure from Edmonton, Flyer General Manager Bud Poile sighed, "I'm afraid we'll never see you out here again." Thus, Poile expressed his belief that Marcon is NHL material and does not belong in the Western League.

Lou's outstanding contribution to the Detroit defense is his spectacular ability to drop and block shots before they get through to the goal. In this difficult and dangerous maneuver, he has the potential to develop into the best "second goal-tender" the Red Wings have had since Bob Goldham retired four years ago.

A native of Fort William, Ontario, where he spends his summers as an office clerk, Marcon was first spotted by a Montreal scout. For the 1957-58 season he was sent to the Canadiens' Cincinnati team in the International League. With the Mohawks, Lou's fine defensive work, coupled with a top-notch offensive record of seven goals and 31 assists drew attention, resulting in his being drafted by the Hershey club of the American League in June, 1958.

Through their working agreement with Detroit, the Bears sent Marcon to Edmonton at the start of last season. With the Flyers he became one of the outstanding young backstops in the circuit. He scored once and picked up six assists in 47 games before receiving the summons from Detroit.

Shy and quiet anywhere but on the ice, Marcon has high hopes that this beckoning will be the start of a long career in Detroit.

JOHN ARCHIBALD McINTYRE

Wing

Born: Brussels, Ontario, September 8, 1930. Height 5' 11", Weight 190 lbs.

Only a broken finger kept Jack McIntyre from having his best year in the NHL last year. In March, the hot-shooting winger broke his right index finger at Chicago. He was in the line-up with a protective cast for four more games, but was declared out for the season's final six contests.

He suffered another set-back earlier in the season when he was demoted to Hershey for a month, missing 11 Detroit games. Despite these reversals the smiling, personable McIntyre was able to crack the century mark in goals last year, scoring his 100th NHL tally in February at New York.

Scorer of 30 goals in the 94 games he has been with Detroit in the past two seasons, Jack fell only three points shy of tying his best point performance in the eight years he has spent in the big league.

A highly-regarded player due mainly to his scoring prowess and his ability to play either the right or left wing, Jack has the misfortune of being a streak-type scorer. He suddenly goes into hot scoring spells, but just as unexpectedly falls into long drouths.

McIntyre started in pro hockey under the insignia of the Boston Bruins in 1949, was shuttled between Boston and Hershey for several seasons, and finally ended up with Chicago in 1953.

He moved on to Detroit two years ago when he was one of eight players involved in a midseason Red Wing-Black Hawk deal. The change in scenery proved a tonic for McIntyre as he tallied 15 goals for Detroit after being held scoreless while with Chicago.

Jake, as he has been nicknamed, hit the 15 mark again last season. While he is looked to for at least another 15 this season, he will be shooting for his first 20-goal National League campaign.

The McIntyres and their three children live in Byron, Ontario, where Jack sells tobacco farm machinery in the summer.

JOHN McKENZIE

Right Wing

Born: High River, Alberta, December 12, 1937. Height 5' 9", Weight 170 lbs.

The name of John McKenzie was second on Detroit's most wanted list during last summer's National League draft meetings in Montreal. For the price of $20,000 he exchanged his Chicago uniform for that of the Red Wings.

A 21-year-old right wing prospect, Johnny only got his feet wet last season with the Black Hawks. Due mainly to a promising final year of junior hockey when he led the OHA in scoring, he was given a long look at the Chicago camp last fall. He survived the training ordeal and managed to get into six games at the start of last season, but was farmed out to Calgary for more seasoning.

Recalled in December, the rugged little hustler remained with the Hawks the rest of the campaign. He played 32 games and although used sparingly, scored three goals and four assists.

A product of the Chicago farm system, Johnny played his minor hockey around Calgary, then moved to St. Catherines where he was a standout with the junior TeePees. In his final season in the under-20 age bracket, he poured in 48 goals and 51 assists for a league-leading total of 99 points.

Born in High River, Alberta, he now calls Nanton his home where he lives with his parents. In the summer months, he works on his father's farm.

WILLIAM RONALD McNEILL

Right Wing

Born: Edmonton, Alberta, January 26, 1936. Height 5' 10", Weight 185 lbs.

Although only 23, Billy McNeill finds himself in the peculiar predicament of having played the better part of the last three seasons—152 games—with the Red Wings and still not having established himself as a National Leaguer.

Another product of the Detroit farm system, McNeill was successful in both the Eastern and Western branches of the minor league set-up. Loaded with the unknown factor, potential, Billy has never quite lived up to his advance notices, although at times his talents and skills have emerged.

The speedy right wing jumped on the Red Wing bandwagon in his home town of Edmonton eight years ago. At the time he was a mainstay on the junior Oil Kings who won the Western Canada championship and went on to the finals of the Memorial Cup playoffs.

After these heights and a one-game tryout with the Flyers, Billy was transferred to Hamilton where he became a star in O.H.A. competition. As a result of this fast development the high-flying flanker was turned pro at 19, joining the salary line while he still was eligible for a final year of amateur play.

With a decent freshman year on the Flyers behind him, Billy spent the next pair of seasons on the brink of becoming a regular member of the Red Wings only to be found wanting, thereby frustrating both him and the management.

Another setback in his campaign to become a season-long regular in Detroit came last February when he was demoted once again to Edmonton after getting into 53 games with the Wings and scoring only two goals. The demotion wasn't too well taken by the fiery Irishman and he publicly voiced his disapproval. However, his play out West left nothing to be desired as he caught fire and scored 12 goals and added 12 assists in the Flyers' final 12 games. Possibly this is the signal that he is ready to clinch a steady job in the big leagues with Detroit.

A member of the Red Wing colony in Edmonton, Billy is married and the father of a girl.

MICHAEL GERALD MELNYK

Center

Born: Edmonton, Alberta, September 16, 1934. Height 5' 10" Weight 175 lbs.

Truly a work-horse type of centerman, 25-year-old Jerry Melnyk is trying once again this year to complete the final step in his climb to the big leagues by clinching a berth on the Detroit squad.

A veteran of five seasons with the Red Wings' Western League farm club in Edmonton, Melnyk's only N.H.L. experience is six games with Detroit during the 1955-56 playoffs.

The stocky, dark-haired pivotman tied with Murray Oliver as the Flyer's leading scorer last season. With an even 30 goals, he brought his W.H.L. total to 125 in five years. And he did everything—centered his regular line, played on the power play and killed penalties.

A right-handed shooting center, Jerry lets his smooth hockey style speak for itself. In the past he has taken his setbacks with ease. If he is returned to Edmonton again this year, the fans out West will be getting one of the most popular players to perform there in years.

JAMES STEWART HUNTER MORRISON

Defense

Born: Montreal, Quebec, October 11, 1931. Height 5' 10". Weight 180 lbs.

Jim Morrison is the most recent addition to the Red Wings. The 28-year-old defenseman became Detroit property in August when Jack Adams traded veteran forward Nick Mickoski to Boston.

Morrison began his National Hockey League career in 1951 with the Bruins, but was traded to Toronto the same year in exchange for Fleming Mackell. After spending six seasons with the Maple Leafs, he was back with Boston last year, being traded for Allan Stanley just before the season opened.

A talented veteran, Morrison possesses a better than average shot. Because of this, he has played up on the line on several occasions. While working at his defense post, his shot is employed at the point on the power play.

Jim is known as a defenseman who has the ability to score. As an amateur with the Barrie Flyers, he was one of the highest scoring defensemen in the Ontario Hockey Association. In the NHL, his top goal output for a season is nine, attained in 1953-54. Last year, he came within one goal of equalling this mark while his 25 points were the most he has scored in the NHL.

A native of Montreal, Jim now lives in Toronto with his wife and two children.

MURRAY OLIVER

Center

Born: Hamilton, Ontario, November 14, 1937. Height 5' 9½". Weight 170 lbs.

With an outstanding season in his initial fling in professional hockey behind him, 21-year-old Murray Oliver is readying himself to make the last move up the ladder in the Detroit organization.

Labelled a "smart" centerman, the slight Oliver employs his talents to overcome his lack of impressive physical size. At Edmonton last year, the 5' 9½", 170-pound speedster scored 33 goals while playing every game. This total is only five below the all-time WHL rookie record.

His mark of 67 points tied him with Jerry Melnyk as the Flyers' leading point man. It was also good for 17th place in the WHL scoring race. He ran second in the rookie of the year contest in the league, and won the "most popular player" vote in Edmonton.

A native of Hamilton, Ont., the good-looking youngster is a true product of the Red Wing farm system. He played all his early hockey in Hamilton's Police League. In 1955, he made Detroit's Junior "B" club in Burlington. He moved up to the home town Tiger Cubs for the next two seasons. After a terrific '57-58 season in the OHA in which he tallied 90 points on 34 goals and 56 assists, he was awarded the Albert "Red" Tilson Memorial Trophy as the League's MVP.

Murray is single and spends his activity away from hockey on the baseball diamond playing shortstop with the Hamilton Beavers of the Inter-County League.

RENE MARCEL PRONOVOST

Defense

Born: Lac a la Tortue, Quebec, June 15, 1930 .Height 6', Weight 190 lbs.

The most successful French-Canadian player in League history outside of the Montreal organization is Marcel Pronovost. Last season, his eighth as a Red Wing, Marcel attained second team All-Star honors for the second consecutive year. In addition, he had his best scoring year in the last four seasons. He also scored the most goals that he has ever made in the big leagues. And he came within two points of tying his best previous total point record.

A fixture on the Detroit ice stage on the defense line since 1951, Marcel is a real student of the game. He has demonstrated his thorough knowledge of hockey on television when he was called upon to explain by words and action some of the technical maneuvers of the sport.

A quiet, studious, serious individual off the ice, Pronovost is not much different on the ice. He is a cool, calculating player—one who thinks out his next move before performing it. He has become dedicated to his game and to his adopted city, Detroit. He has been a natural leader on and off the ice since he started up the Detroit trail in 1947.

When first sighted by scout Marcel Cote, Marcel was engaged in juvenile hockey in Shawinigan Falls, Quebec. He was sent to Windsor as a candidate for the Detroit-sponsored Spitfires. As early as this in his hockey career, Marcel's determination was shown by his equal interest in his improvement in hockey, in learning the English language, and in his education. His establishment in all three areas is adequate proof of Marcel's profound success in all endeavors.

Marcel turned professional in 1949 when he was 19. Assigned to Omaha, he specialized in being a rushing defenseman and set a record for point scoring by rear guards. He was named rookie of the year and was called up to the Red Wings as a playoff substitute in 1950. He appeared often enough in Detroit's successful Stanley Cup drive to have his name put on hockey's most historic trophy as one of the youngest players to achieve this honor. Starting with Detroit the following season, he was sent to Indianapolis in mid-year to gain some needed defense polish under the coaching of Ott Heller. Though he was with the Capitols only half a season, Marcel was named to the second All-Star team.

Pronovost returned to Detroit to stay in 1951. In the intervening years his all-out play back of the blue line combined with his daring rink-long rushes have thrilled thousands of fans, both in Detroit and around the League. He has become a feared, respected and polished defenseman. A tribute to the Detroit organization, he is a pure product of its farm system.

Married, with two children, Marcel makes his permanent home in a Montreal suburb. An avid golfer, he is second only to Howe among the Red Wings and is rated as one of the best in hockey. Beyond his athletic accomplishments, Marcel is proud of his unofficial reputation as the best spoken bi-lingual player in the game.

TERRANCE GORDON SAWCHUK

Goaltender

Born: Winnipeg, Manitoba, December 28, 1929. Height 5' 11". Weight 180 lbs.

A veteran of nine years in the NHL, seven with Detroit and two with Boston, Terry Sawchuk has been called the "greatest goalkeeper in the history of the National League".

Despite being shackled last season with his worst record since entering the League in 1950, Sawchuk's reputation can stand upon his past performances and records.

A three-time winner of the Vezina Trophy as the League's leading goalie and five-time All-Star team member, Sawchuk is considered by many to be the finest player ever to put on a pair of goalie pads. At one stretch of his legendary career Sawchuk went through five straight years of allowing less than two goals a game.

He led the circuit three times in shutouts and has 76 to his credit, an all-time League record. He established an outstanding mark at the outset of his professional career by being chosen as the rookie of the year in each of the three leagues he played in—the United States with Omaha in 1947-48, the American with Indianapolis in 1948-49, and the National with Detroit in 1950-51.

Sawchuk's finest moment occurred in the 1951-52 playoffs when he chalked up four shutouts and allowed only five goals as the champion Red Wings took the Stanley Cup in a never-to-be broken record of eight straight games.

Last season after a tremendous first half in which the netminder practically carried the team single-handedly and was voted to the first All-Star team at mid-year, he suffered along with his team through a dismal final 335 games. The Ukrainian-born goalie ended with 209 goals against him in 67 games for an average of 3.12, highest of any regular netminder and the first time in his NHL lifetime that he averaged more than three goals a game.

With last season's disappointments behind him, Terry should be ready to return to the form that brought him so many laurels and honors in the past nine years.

A member of the local colony ever since he married a Detroit girl, Terry lives in suburban Detroit with his wife and three children.

Born: Creighton Mines, Ontario, December 2, 1938. Height 6' Weight 180 lbs.

Young talented Brian Smith is one of the brightest prospects in the Detroit system. The 20-year-old rangy left wing has a good chance of becoming a Red Wing, despite the fact that this is only his second year of professional hockey.

If he makes the big time this season, the jump will be all the more amazing as he has played but 20 games of pro hockey. Last year the flashy flanker suffered a badly damaged left knee that required surgery which ended his playing for the year. The recuperation period which took place in both Edmonton and Detroit lasted five months after the accident on his 20th birthday, December 2nd.

Now presented with a clean bill of health on his knee and armed with an abundance of natural hockey skill, Brian hopes to follow in the footsteps of his father, Stuart Smith, former Montreal Canadiens player during the 1940's.

NORMAN ULLMAN

Center

Born: Provost, Alberta, December 26, 1935. Height 5' 10". Weight 185 lbs.

One of the foremost exponents of the expression "action speaks louder than words" is Norm Ullman. In his normal quiet and unobstrusive manner, Ullman is now starting his fifth season as a Red Wing and his sixth year in professional hockey. Jack Adams calls him "one of the most under-rated players in the League."

Shy, silent and retiring off the ice, Ullman doesn't quite shed these characteristics in a game as he is unspectacular and unemotional in action.

But the 23-year-old center has plenty of spirit, and is no one to take an undue amount of punishment. When he does explode and retaliate, his rival discovers that he is no easy match.

For the past two seasons, Norm has been a 20-goal man. Last year he hit his personal high in scoring with 58 points, good for second place on the team and fifteenth in the League. He accomplished this despite being hampered for five weeks by an ankle injury suffered in a February practice. He missed only one game but was severly handicapped in several others. During this time, he was forced to wear a removable cast on his leg before and after each game. It was indeed a peculiar sight to see him hobble into the dressing room on crutches before the game, take his regular place in the line-up, and hobble out after the game.

The powerful Westerner began his professional puck-chasing career in the Detroit organization in 1954. He led the Wing-sponsored Edmonton Oil Kings to the Memorial Cup finals in 1953-54, the highest point any Detroit-backed junior team has ever reached.

After a season with the Edmonton Flyers who won the League and play-off championships, Normie moved on to the Redshirts for the 1955-56 campaign. He spent his first year getting adjusted to the NHL, then took over a regular center spot, working quietly but effectively.

Married and the father of two children, Ullman's permanent address is in Edmonton, where he is employed by the city as a traffic clerk during the summer.

DETROIT HOCKEY HALL OF FAME

Past and present members of the Detroit Hockey Club are elected to the Hall of Fame by the Detroit Hockey Writers' Association. The original group of selections numbered ten. Seven have been added, and present regulations call for the addition of a single nominee annually. The Hall of Fame is displayed in the lobby opposite the Red Wing dressing room.
